

CASE STUDY: Flammability Testing Company

THE PARTNER: A Leading Flammability Testing Company

A national testing, inspection, verification, and certification company operates an East Coast facility that specializes in fire, flammability, and textile testing.

THE CHALLENGE:

One of the company's fire testing laboratories is located in a 17,000-square-foot, single level building. They wanted to protect this area and keep it safe for those who work there. This organization is not only committed to improving safety for manufacturers and consumers, but for its own internal staff as well.

THE SOLUTION:

The company supplied their personnel with 24 emergency alert pendants with built-in fall detection and GPS for the ultimate level of security. The devices are equipped with 24/7/365 monitoring, so no matter what shift is worked, assistance can always be reached at the press of a button.

THE RESULT:

ResponseLINK delivered the solutions they were looking for, on time and on budget. It was a quick and simple implementation process that satisfied the organization's safety goals for their East Coast facility.
